DIRECTIONS FOR USE

The Educational Film Guide indexes and describes 16mm motion pictures. All information is obtained directly from the main source of each film.

Part 1. Title and Subject Index. May be used to find out where the film is listed in Part 2. (Title is always followed by the Dewey classification number).

Part 2. Classified Subject List. Arranged by the Dewey Decimal Classification. A sample entry is analyzed below:

OPERA SCHOOL. CanNFB 1951 36min sd b&w
$90, rent $4.50 782

jh-sh-c-ad

Produced by Guy Glover
How a young singer prepares for an operatic career. Excerpts from operas are heard thruout the film and the final reel presents part of a full-dress performance of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," in English
Review: Saturday Review, Aug. 23, 1952 p34

The title of the film is followed by an abbreviation for the main source, the year of release, the running time, "sd" for "sound", and the purchase and rental prices for a black and white print. "782" is the Dewey classification number for the film. The abbreviations "jh-sh-c-ad" indicate the grade level for which the film was intended.

Paragraph 1 includes the production credits (those which can be determined from the information provided to us by the source). Paragraph 2 briefly describes the contents of the film. A third paragraph refers to a review of the film.

The source of a film is indicated in Part 2 by the abbreviation which immediately follows the title. (See Directory of Main Sources in back pages for the complete address of each source).

Date of release. The year in which the film was first released is indicated when this information is provided by the source or can be accurately determined from copyright data, reference books, etc.

Prices. When only the amount is given, this represents the purchase price. When the amount is preceded by the word rent, this is the fee (not including postage) for the use of the film for one day. When this fee is termed a service charge, the abbreviation "serv.ch." precedes the price. "free-loan" is indicated when there is no fee required for the use of the film (although postage will usually have to be paid by the borrower). The words purchase apply and rent apply are used when the source does not wish to indicate a specific price. All price information is furnished to us by the main source, and prices are subject to change without notice.

PREFACE

This 1953 edition of the Educational Film Guide is a classified subject list of 11,000 16mm motion pictures, supplemented by an alphabetic title and subject index. This edition replaces all volumes and supplements which have preceded it. Information and availability data has been verified with the source of each film, corrected, and brought up to date. As in previous editions of the Guide, the films included are not confined to classroom films, but include others which are available for non-theatrical uses, making this Guide valuable not only to schools and universities, but also to clubs and associations, social agencies, libraries, churches, business and industrial firms, television stations, and other groups which use 16mm films.

New Features. Order numbers are included for Library of Congress 3 by 5 inch catalog cards for films (May be purchased from the Card Division, Library of Congress, Washington 25, D.C.) and for film evaluation cards of the same size published by the Educational Film Library Association (345 E. 46th St., New York 17, N.Y.). An increasing number of film reviews are noted from periodicals such as Educational Screen (64 E. Lake St., Chicago 1, Ill.) The Saturday Review (25 W. 45th St., New York 36, N.Y.) and Film News (444 Central Park West, New York 25, N.Y.)

Types of Films Included. An attempt has been made to include all 16mm motion pictures intended for educational use, all sponsored or "free" films, religious films, films on travel, music, and sports, documentary and experimental films, etc. A selective policy is followed for "home movies" and features released on 16mm film. Films intended solely for the medical, dental, and psychiatric professions are omitted entirely.

History. The first edition of this Guide was published in 1936 with the title: Educational Film Catalog. For years before that The H. W. Wilson Company had been making surveys and inquiries to learn whether or not such a catalog was really needed. When the decision to publish the Guide was made, a questionnaire regarding the form and general policies was submitted to educators and librarians. In 1945 the name was changed to Educational Film Guide.

Form of Guide. An explanation of the purpose of the two parts of the Guide and the information which can be found in each is contained in the "Directions for Use" printed inside the front cover.

Evaluation System. At regular intervals, a list of the new films which have appeared in the Guide is sent to members of the Advisory Panel (names on Page vii). Each person is asked to rate the films he has seen by using a numerical scale which indicates the range from poor to excellent. If the average of three more of these numerical evaluations is sufficiently high, the film receives a star (*) with its listing in Part 2. This system has been devised to obtain the composite opinions of persons thruout the United States and Canada who hold responsible positions in the audio-visual field, and who see a great many films in the course of their regular duties.

Reference is also made to evaluations or reviews of films appearing in magazines which are likely to be generally available in public and school libraries or audio-visual departments.

Grading. The grading symbols used in Part 2 represent, as nearly as can be determined, the audience level for which the producer intended his film to have optimum use. This does not rule out the fact that the film may be useful at other levels. It is also noted that many films are made with no specific audience in mind, and may be useful, to some extent, at all age levels.

Method of Cataloging and Classification. Films have been cataloged and classified in this Guide by the methods and tools which are in general usage by librarians for books and other printed materials. Subject headings for films are assigned with the aid of the "Sears List of Subject Headings" and the Library of Congress "Subject Headings." Extremely helpful has been the "Rules for Descriptive Cataloging in the Library of Congress: Motion Pictures and Filmstrips," 2nd Preliminary Edition, March 1953.

For classification of the films, the "Dewey Decimal Classification" Standard (15th) Edition has been followed.

Publication Schedule. According to present plans, supplements to this edition will be published semi-annually thru Spring 1957.

How to Obtain Films. To assist those who wish to purchase or rent 16mm films some brief suggestions regarding sources, etc. are given on page 1020.

Acknowledgements. The editor and The H. W. Wilson Company are very grateful for the many leaders in the field of audio-visual education, film producers, and others who have given freely their advice and suggestions.

Since it is upon the cooperation of the film sources that the comprehensiveness of this Guide depends, we wish to thank the producers, sponsors and distributors who have consistently and promptly informed us of their current releases, and also carefully verified all information on the proofs of the listings of their films in this edition of the Guide.

As it has been since its very beginning, this edition was prepared under the overall supervision of Dorothy E. Cook, editor of the "Standard Catalog" series of Wilson publications. Sincere appreciation is extended to Betty Moran and Lillian Clarke who have assisted in the editorial work and other aspects of the compilation of the Guide.

Produced by René A. Spitz

Five mothers, breast feeding their children, are successively shown. The first, patient, loving, and secure; the second, outgoing with mild anxiety; the third, concerned but without hostility; the fourth, rejecting and hostile toward her child; the fifth; hostile to an unwanted child. The behavior of the mothers in feeding and play situations is shown to be an expression of their conscious or unconscious wishes of what their children should be like

c-ad

PCR-97-A to D. Produced by H. D. Behrens. Presents growth and development of identical twin boys; deals primarily with responses to everyday, informal situations; stresses differences between developing twins

PART 1 (17min $34, rent $1.75): Illustrates motor growth in infancy, especially differences in rate of development among various parts of body; emphasizes cephalocaudal pattern. Sequence provided at 14, 22, 28, and 40 weeks

PART 2 (17min $34, rent $1.75): Demonstrates twins at 12, 15, 18, 21 months. Shows getting up, standing, and walking stages; also amount of independent and cooperative play

PART 3 (17min $33, rent $1.75): Records behavior at 24, 28, and 32 months. Shows amicable but independent play, and rapidity of development of motor skills and of larger muscles

PART 4 (19min $37, rent $2): Sequences of ages three, four and five years illustrate increasingly cooperative play and improved muscular coordination. Shows ultimate self-sufficiency in such activities as eating, washing teeth, and playing

Produced by the Institute of Child Welfare, University of California

Devised for use with students of child development, in order to familiarize them with the methods used in securing anthropometric measurements on young children for purposes of research. The procedures of taking fourteen different measurements are shown, identified by captions. In addition there are illustrations of children with different body-builds, a chart showing curves for two children who grew at different rates, and a pictorial sequence of one child showing changes in this child from two to ten years of age

Although the film is not intended as a training device, a set of mimeographed directions for taking these measures will be furnished on request

THIS IS ROBERT. NYU 1942 1hr 20min sd b&w (Studies of normal personality development ser) $210, rent $10 136.7

* c-ad Guide

Produced by the Department of Child Study, Vassar College in cooperation with the Sarah Lawrence College Nursery School

Traces the development of an aggressive, "difficult" yet thoroughly appealing child from his early nursery school days to his first year in a fine public school. Clumsy, blundering, confused by varied adult pressures, Robert's violent and haphazard aggression is seen as a strong, defensive counter-attack on the whole world. His mother's steadying support and his teachers' firm, consistent and affectionate treatment bring him safely through the first adolescence of the preschool years to an outwardly smooth adjustment in public school, without his earlier inflammable outbursts. The film incidentally suggests the activities of modern nursery and elementary schools. Its chief purpose is in showing ordinary situations as well as in the recently developed "projective techniques" how every individual constantly reveals to the discerning observer his deeply-lying needs and attitudes through the "language of behavior"

A teen-age party is shown. The audience is asked to listen to the dialogue and watch the action on the screen carefully in order to evaluate different types of behavior. In the scenes that follow, friendly cooperation is contrasted with self-centered bad manners. Ethel breaks her promise to keep a secret. Betty tells a lie to get out of a date. Frank criticizes Ed behind his back. The commentary and sub-titles encourage the spectator to select and remember those qualities people need if they wish to be, and to have, friends—loyalty, dependability, courtesy

Based on the story by Lev Tolstoi

A bereaved cobbler is embittered against religion. He spurns neighbor's sympathy and clergyman's solace, but is finally persuaded to read the Bible. Its message gradually personalizes itself to him and he follows the admonition: "Look into the street tomorrow, for I will come." He gives food to an unemployed man, intercedes for a boy who has stolen some fruit, and loans his coat to a poor woman and her child. In the woman's gratitude he learns that "God is Love," his faith is restored, his soul comforted. (John I: 4-8; Matthew 25:40)

Photographed in Foochow, China, by the International Film Foundation. The Rev Alexander B. Ferguson served as producer, making the film for the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Boston

The film takes the form of a letter written back to America by Walter Smith, a missionary, upon the occasion of the arrival of new missionaries in China. Walter Smith suddenly sensed the newcomers thought of him as an old and knowing China hand. This brought back memories of the Smiths' first year on the field. Narrated in the first person, the audience is led, step by step, thru that year

Produced by Cathedral Films, Inc. for the United Lutheran Church in America

The congregation of St Paul's Church, Harrison City, built a fine church, paid off the debt and went to sleep. No one seemed to care except Ed Collins, a gas station operator, who insisted a congregation should be "alive with the gospel." Against strong opposition, Collins rallied a group together on a special project to "put new life in us." With the help of a mission developer, they established a new mission in the next town for a group of unchurched people. St. Paul's found that as it helped others it gained new life and strength in numbers

Distributor says: "This is a true-life film made in China in which the documentary technique is employed to tell the story of how converts are made to the Catholic Church"

The picture opens with the missioner, Father Mark Tennien, driving his jeep through the Chinese countryside on his way to Blue Cloud Country, a region where no priest had ever been before. On the way he ponders his experiences twenty years earlier in Jungyun. Employing the flashback technique, we see Father Tennien arriving in Jungyun and his struggle to establish the Church—a struggle which almost costs him his life and which is finally won only through prayer, a civil war, and the help of a catechist named 'Big Six.' The film then returns to Father Tennien on the way to Blue Cloud. We see him rescue a group of injured men. We learn that Blue Cloud will not be easy to win. Then we rejoice with him when a surprising turn of events causes 12,000 people to come clamoring to be admitted into the church. The film re-enacts actual events with the very people who took part in them originally

Sponsored and produced by the National Training Laboratory in Group Development

A training film on uses of role-playing and how to do it. Some uses shown in the film are: gaining insight and analyzing effects of problems by demonstrating and analyzing effects of different behavior; uncovering interpersonal relationships which are hindering group progress; practicing new behavior before trying it out in a real life situation and communicating human relations skills by acting them out instead of by verbal explanation

Also covers the skills required to use role-playing: how to take an inventory of problems; how to select one problem upon which the group agrees to work; how to find a real-life example of the problem; how to set up, get under way, and stop a role-playing scene demonstrating the problem; how to lead the discussion after the role playing

A dramatic portrayal of a not infrequent rural problem—the tendency of farmers' sons to leave the land in favor of other employment. Presents the problem thru the story of Howard, an only son working on his father's farm and receiving a small weekly pittance which offers little security and prevents him from marrying. Some of Howard's childhood is shown, with instances of boyish frustration caused by the father's insensitive domination. Resentment intensifies over the years, finally erupting in a heated exchange which threatens a complete break between father and son. The film ends on a tentatively happy note, with their differences reconciled thru a legal partnership agreement

Considers the problems that management faces in its approach to the human and financial factors involved in technological progress. To what extent can unemployment be relieved by seeking larger markets, by adjustment of prices, wages, and dividends? How can management coordinate its own long-term self-interest with the needs of the workers and the consumer?
Instead of attempting to answer these questions, the film poses them against the background of managerial organization, asking the audience not to overlook the realities involved

An excerpt from the feature film of the same title produced by MGM
"Colonel Jim Bruton, who pioneered the settlement of the New Mexico Territory, believes that any effort to cultivate the 'sea of grass' as farm land will be fruitless and will ruin it for grazing. He ruthlessly opposes settlement by the 'nesters' until the federal government in the person of Judge Chamberlain enforces their right to stake claims for 164 acres each. Ostensibly Bruton is beaten, but his dire predictions are borne out as the fertility of the soil is depleted and successive years of drought reduce the land to a dusty desert.

"The story of two brothers who set out from their typical American home to enter the business world. As Dan organizes his doorknob company and Gus establishes his natural gas concern, they encounter such problems as the law of supply and demand, franchise controls, and profit management. Before the solutions are found, the film has shown the differences between, and both the advantages and disadvantages of, the two types of enterprise. Live-action scenes of drilling for natural gas in the field add interest to sequence illustrating the operations of the natural gas company." Distributor

Produced by Ritter, Young, and Lerner Associates
Shows how rules channel energy to a common goal; how they are made for the benefit, rather than the restriction, of people; and why they (the rules) must be responsive to changing conditions. The principal point made, by using homely examples of children playing with toy railroad tracks, is that laws are necessary if society is to function. Just as the toy trains unsteered by the track go 'wild,' so does society unsteered by law go 'wild'

Educational consultant: Carter Davidson,
Four boys need some boards for a backstop in their baseball field. Failing to raise enough money to buy them, they steal some belonging to a construction company. One boy, suffering from a guilty conscience, tells the whole story to his family lawyer. The lawyer explains what laws are, why they exist, and how minor offenses against law and order too often lead to serious crimes. The boy develops an attitude of respect for existing laws and a feeling of responsibility toward obeying them. Then he helps the other boys to settle accounts with the construction company
Emphasizes the value of respect for and obedience to the law on the part of all good citizens

HISTORY OF WRITING. EBF 1950 25min sd b&w $125, rent $6.50 411
* el-jh-sh-c-ad Guide

Adapted from a visual unit produced for the British Ministry of Education
Two prehistoric sign writings which antedated the alphabet are shown, followed by examples of early Mesopotamian, Chinese and Egyptian writings to demonstrate that the picture, with later modifications, was the source from which all writing came. Animation shows how symbols for objects and ideas became sheer symbols for sound at the time the Hebrews and Phoenicians needed a commonly understood written means of communication
The next sequences depict the transfer of the alphabet idea to Greece and Rome, and the development of letter styles in France during the time of Charlemagne. Scenes of manuscript writing in monasteries during the Middle Ages lead to the final sequence which introduces the printing press and movable type as it substituted printing for so much of the former writing

"Narrated in French, film has a two-fold objective: to give the student a pictorial introduction to a country where French is the native tongue: and, through simple and slowly paced commentary narrated by a native Parisian, to give the student an opportunity to strengthen his grasp of the language and to correlate the use of French with appropriate visual experience. Narration is keyed to students finishing their first-year study of French" FilmWorld

Helps to visualize the mathematical applications of basic geometry. Beginning with the erection of a perpendicular, the film illustrates the relationship of the perpendicular with the ordinary plumb bob, level and square

PROPERTIES OF TRIANGLES. Knowledge Bldrs 1947 12min sd b&w (Practical geometry ser) $40, rent $2 513

sh-c Guide

The practical importance of the rigidity of the triangle is illustrated by comparing the strength of triangles with the strength of non-rigid figures. Animated treatments of the angle bisectors theorem, the perpendicular bisectors theorem, the altitudes theorem and the medians theorem follow. The merging of lines and points when a triangle becomes equilateral is shown

PYTHAGOREAN THEOREM. KnowledgeBldrs 1947 12min sd b&w (Practical geometry ser) $40, rent $2 513

Produced by the U.S. Army

FUNDAMENTALS OF RADIOACTIVITY (59min $85): PMF 5145-a. Explains basic concepts of nuclear physics necessary to an understanding of radioisotopes. Describes the origins of nuclear radiation and the chain reaction of uranium as a means of producing radioisotopes. Primarily for technical use. LC card FiE 52-2010

PROPERTIES OF RADIATION (68min $98): PMF 5145-b. Explains the characteristics and properties of primary and secondary nuclear radiation in terms of their ionizing effects. Introduces concepts concerning the effect of matter on radiation so that absorbing materials can be used to measure radiation characteristics or to shield against their biological effects. Discusses terminology and presentation of data as a prerequisite to practical measurement

PRACTICAL PROCEDURES OF MEASUREMENT (48min $69): PMF 5145-c. Explains the purposes of measurement for safety and experimental purposes. Discusses the operational principles of the electroscope, ionization chamber, proportional counter, and particularly the Geiger-Muller counter. Explains the concepts of threshold valve and plateau. Discusses briefly the mechanical recorder, scaler, and interpolation lights, and gives a simple exposition of counting statistics and the standard deviation

THE RADIOISOTOPE: METHODOLOGY (33min $48.18): PMF 5145-d. Illustrates criteria of tracer methodology for radio-chemical purity; explains the importance in designing a tracer experiment, of economy of time and materials, and of accuracy; and portrays a research team planning a typical tracer experiment (metabolism of the horse bean plant) in which appropriate criteria are observed LC card FiE 52-2014

THE PRACTICE OF RADIOLOGICAL SAFETY (33min $48.18): PMF 5145-f. Shows how shipments of radioactive materials are handled, doses for therapy prepared, and synthetic compounds manufactured; pictures the protective clothing and the metering equipment worn by personnel handling radioactive materials; emphasizes safety precautions. LC card FiE 52-2196

RADIOISOTOPES IN GENERAL SCIENCES (46min $66); PMF 5147-c. Gives nine illustrations of the radioisotope as an important research tool adaptable to tracer investigations in all branches of general science including metallurgy, chemistry, biochemistry, and plant physiology. LC card FiE 52-2009

UNLOCKING THE ATOM. UW-Educ 1951 20min sd b&w $95 539.76

* sh-c-ad Guide

Produced by Gaumont-British Instructional Films. Re-edited and American narration added by United World Films

Animated diagrams explain chain reaction atomic structure, properties of alpha, beta, gamma rays, reactions in the pile, operation of a cyclotron. Demonstrations show how the nucleus captures a neutron, and an atomic explosion in action. Background information is given of early knowledge of the atom, and the contribution of leading scientists

CHEMISTRY. Gateway 1950 8min sd b&w (Gateway primary science ser) $49.50, rent $4.50 540

el

Produced by John Criswell

Chemistry ceases to be a mystery to the very young child when it is pointed out that mother is a chemist in the kitchen. From many things she makes something which is entirely different—a cake! Chemistry is shown as responsible for many of the things we see and use every day. Rust is used as one example of chemical change

EFLA evaluation card No. 900

HISTORICAL INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF CHEMISTRY. EBF 1937 15min si b&w $24 540

jh-sh-c Guide

Produced by Erpi Classroom Films, Inc.

Scenes of the alchemists attempting to produce gold from the baser metals. The scientist, Joseph Priestley, is then shown in his laboratory performing the experiments which led to the discovery of oxygen

INTRODUCTION TO CHEMISTRY. Coronet 1949 10min sd (Physical science ser) b&w $50; color $100 540

jh-sh-c-ad Guide

Educational consultant: Therald Moeller, University of Illinois

Defines the term chemistry and introduces some of the important terms and materials common to the subject. Then some of the major industrial applications of chemistry are presented, along with everyday uses found in the home and on the farm

LC card FiA 52-105

METALS AND NON-METALS. Coronet 1949 10min sd b&w $50, color $100 540

jh-sh-c-ad Guide

Educational consultant: Therald Moeller

Demonstrates the characteristics and appearances of the common metals, fundamental differences between metals and non-metals, and the nature of alloys and metallic compounds

EFLA evaluation card No. 838

WONDER OF CHEMISTRY. YoungAmerica 1949 11min sd b&w (Elementary science ser) $40 540

el-jh Guide

Produced by Leonard Peck Productions. Advisers: Gerald S. Craig and Helen B. Warrin

Introduces the student to chemistry as one of the sciences. Defines and explains element, compound, and chemical change. Stresses the contributions that chemistry and the chemist have made to a better way of life

OXIDATION AND REDUCTION. EBF 1932 11min sd b&w $50, rent $2.50 541

jh-sh-c Guide

Authors: Hermann I. Schlesinger and Harvey B. Lemon. Copyrighted by the University of Chicago

The simultaneous process of oxidation and reduction is presented first by buring phosphorus and rusting iron under experimental conditions. Mercury rust is then decomposed to discover the component of air responsible for oxidation. Other examples of oxidation and oxidizing agents follow. The process of reduction is presented in the operation of the blast furnace, magnesium burning in dry ice, and thermite welding. Everyday examples of oxidation and reduction conclude the picture

SCIENCE IN RESIN DEVELOPMENT. Am Cyanamid-Plastics&ResinsDiv 1947 20min sd color free-loan 541

sh-c-ad

Produced by Transfilm Corp.

Portrays some of the scientific background necessary for the fundamental research and development of new chemicals which have produced new resins for the surface coating industry

SIMPLE CHANGES IN MATTER. Coronet 1952 10min sd b&w $50, color $100 541

el Guide

Educational collaborator: John C. Read

Young people observe the physical and chemical changes that surround them every day such as growth of seedlings, soil erosion, metal expansion, ice melting, leaves changing color, logs decaying and metal rusting. Thru simple experiments, the differences between physical and chemical changes are made clear

MOLECULAR THEORY OF MATTER. EBF 1932 11min sd b&w $50, rent $2.50 541.2

jh-sh-c Guide

Authors: Hermann I. Schlesinger and Harvey B. Lemon. Copyrighted by the University of Chicago

Evidence of molecular activity in gases, liquids, and solids is presented in support of the molecular theory of matter. Animated drawings explain such phenomena as the diffusion of gases, the exaporation of liquids, and the transformation of liquids into solids, in terms of the theory. Among the features of the film are the machine gun illustration of the force exerted by molecules in motion, and the microscopic view of the Brownian movement

541.3 Chemical processes

CATALYSIS. EBF 1937 11min sd b&w $50, rent $2 541.3

Jh-sh-c Guide

Produced by Erpi Classroom Films, Inc.

Explains several phenomena associated with catalysis, including concentration by absorption, activation by absorption, intermediate compounds in a homogeneous mixture, chain reactions, breaking of reaction chains, poisoning of catalysis, and negative catalysts or inhibitors. The practical applications used as a basis for explanations are rubber manufacturing and anti-knock gasoline

CHEMICAL REACTIONS. EditedPicSys 1939 18min sd b&w $60, rent $3 541.3

jh-sh

Produced by Walter A. Yorke, in conjunction with the Victor Animatograph Corp.

A detailed exposition of the composition of an atom and the relationship between nucleus and electrons as exemplified in the 92 elements assembled in the eight groups of the periodic table

CHEMISTRY OF COMBUSTION. EditedPicSys 1939 9min sd b&w $30, rent $1.50 (si 12min $22.50) 541.3

jh-sh-c

Produced by Walter A. Yorke, in conjunction with the Victor Animatograph Corp.

A series of chemical experiments in the phenomena of oxidation and combustion—too dangerous for performance in the average laboratory

COLLOIDS. EBF 1938 11min sd b&w $50, rent $2.50 541.3

sh-c Guide

Produced by Erpi Classroom Films, Inc.

A pictorial portrayal of colloidal suspensions. Examples illustrated are: fog (liquid in gas), whipped cream (gas in liquid), clay and india ink (solid in liquid), smoke (solid in gas), and mayonnaise (liquid in liquid). Failure to settle is explained by Brownian movements, protective films, and charges on particles. The Cottrell process of smoke precipitation concludes the presentation

Introductory scenes give evidence of the great multitude and variety of colloids encountered in nature and illustrate a generally accepted classification of the most common types. Further pictures show how to produce colloids artificially

SURFACE CHEMISTRY. Brandon 1940 30min sd b&w $135, rent $5 541.3

sh-c-ad

Produced by Nobel Films

Dr Irving Langmuir describes some of the experiments in surface chemistry which shed light on the properties of the molecule. How non-reflecting glass is produced is demonstrated by Dr Katherine Blodgett, his assistant. Dr Langmuir then explains how he discovered the cause of oil spreading on surfaces—the work of molecules. Further information is given on ways of accurately measuring the size and shapes of molecules

VELOCITY OF CHEMICAL REACTIONS. EBF 1937 11min sd b&w $50, rent $2.50 541.3

Jh-sh-c Guide

Produced by Erpi Classroom Films, Inc.

Shows the influence of temperature and the nature of reactants and molecular changes. Include also catalysis and its practical significance, reversible reactions and chemical equilibrium and industrial applications of reaction processes.
